

Be on the Team

Beginning in mid-February 2026, Wildlife Arts needs well-organized people to join the all-volunteer team that runs our kids' nature art contest. Learn more: <https://bit.ly/4jFKION>

scan for more info + sign up

Beginning in mid-February 2026, our volunteer-led organization needs well-organized people to join our art contest team. It's the powerhouse of behind-the-scenes volunteers who

- get the information to CPS teachers, after-school program staff, and families, through email and social media
- collect kids' entries from schools and after-school programs
- log hundreds of wonderful drawings by grade-level, sort them, and prepare them for judging.

This could be a great fit for you if you:

....love the idea of celebrating kids' art-making and our local species all at once;

....have a knack for efficient systems and teamwork

....need options for remote and asynchronous tasks but can fit in several sessions of team-based work, too.

Wildlife Arts' Cambridge City Nature Art Challenge, will run for the 7th year in 2026, for the first time as an all-volunteer effort. The team will meet virtually several times to plan and coordinate tasks, go in person to schools to drop of entry forms and collect art, distribute posters of winning art to local businesses, and at times may work asynchronously on particular tasks. This volunteer team will work from February through June, but people with only 1-2 months available will be considered.

scan for more info + signup